THE BELLJAR

It Seems That Summer Is Never Ever Forever

Bottom center: Leslie Watson bumps with the bus before it leaves to go to Austin for the football team's first game.

Bottom right: Mr. Robert W. Minnerly and Roberts Drew discuss a schedule change.

During orientation, students met the new Headmaster, Mr. Edgar L. Sanford and the new Upper School principal, Mr. Robert W. Minnerly. Mr. W. S. Kilborne informed students of the new grading system.

Middle Schoolers met their new principal, Mr. Bill Cunningham.

After meeting their children's teachers, Lower School mothers learned that their children would receive guidance, gentle care and understanding from Mr. Larry Joe Brown, the Lower School principal.

The first day of school, the Lower, Middle, and Upper Schools attended classes. Upper Schoolers also got on buses to watch the football game in Austin.

Artists Make The Abstract Tangible

Lower School artists, with assistance from Mrs. David Koeppe and Mrs. C. Q. McGown, met two days a week to convert ideas into tangible things with clay, paint, and crayon.

The Middle School wove their ideas into baskets using natural materials. The seventh grade and Mrs. David M. Smith went to east Texas to collect leaves and paint landscapes.

Mrs. Martin Siegel tried to bring out innovative responses from Upper Schoolers. The ceramics class got a new Raku kiln and Mrs. Smith started a weaving and fiber course.

Upper left: Teresa Fischer clobbers a piece of clay

Lower right: Cynthia Parker wholeheartedly weaves simple straw into a beautiful basket

French Is The Romantic Romance Language

Upper left: Joe Tilley changes the jour on the French calender

Lower right: Judy Olin recites her poem to the class under the critical gaze of Alan Goodrich

In addition to the usual classroom work, the Lower School French students combined learning with fun by playing bingo with their teacher Miss Nancy Pratt.

Mrs. Gail Wheaton and the sixth grade learned a lot of French by collecting and memorizing Mother Goose rhymes. Eighth graders developed their abilities to speak French by describing scenes on slides to Ms. Emily Forsyth.

Upper School Francophiles went in many directions as they learned and practiced materials for outside scholastic competitions, acted out plays in class, and wrote poetry in shapes corresponding to the subject matter.

M.S. Spanish Students Wade The Rio Grande

The Upper School Spanish program tried a new twist to language learning called psycholinguistics. This system uses no English. Instead, students learn by listening, seeing, and doing. Imagine Mr. Robert D. Adams jumping up and down on a chair, screaming, illustrating "loco."

Middle Schoolers had many activities: seventh graders could go to Saltillo and Monterrey, seventh and eighth grades threw a piñata party at Christmas, and the eighth grade went out for a Mexican dinner.

Lower Schoolers learned about Spanish-speaking countries by playing typical games. Mr. Rafael Venegas also arranged movies, parties, trips, meals, dances, songs, and student productions.

Upper left: Mr. Rafael Venegas explains to the third grade Spanish class how to play a rhythm game which will help them learn their dialogue

Lower right: The Advanced Placement Spanish class listens to a recording of some of Federico Garcia Lorca's poetry

Students Write Poems, Prayers, And Themes

Upper left: Jan Buckler and Elizabeth Beier study only the "A's" of their vocabulary

Lower right: A typical CDS Upper School student corrects errors with assistance from the present Writing Guide.

Upper Schoolers reaped the benefits of the English Department's testament: The Second Edition of The Writing Guide. Students studied a plethora of literature including fairy tales, detective stories, the New Testament, and novels.

Middle School English students diagrammed sentences and then more sentences. The Middle School teachers taught grammar to prepare students for writing papers in the Upper School.

Lower School English included special projects, reading stories, and reading poems. They also learned how to use the library.

And That, My Children, Is The Way It Was

Lower School history students studied American History from Columbus to the presidential elections. Mr. Daniel M. Bloch's Fifth Graders reconstructed Civil War battles.

Middle Schoolers took up European History. Mrs. Helen Mahzza's history class performed a Greek play.

Upper School students studied many facets of history, world and American. Mr. Will Stansbery talked of Lenin and the Renaissance, Dr. Ford Dixon told girls how to cry their way out of speeding tickets, and Mr. Peter Graves taught that Economics makes cents.

Upper: "Listen, my children, I tell you that it is money that makes the world go round, not sex." Dr. Ford Dixon talks economics
Lower right: Kim Vincent asks Mr. Peter Graves to elaborate on a point.

Students Wonder If It Will Ever Add Up

Top left: "I don't think she has the right answer," says Jeffery Greenman as Blair Hyde proves that $D(\sec x) = \sec x \tan x$.

Top right: "You've been barkin' up the wrong tree for the answer to this problem," exclaims Mr. M. H. BenBarka to Lisa Davidson.

The Upper School curriculum offered students courses from Math Appreciation to Calculus. In Logic class, Mr. M. H. BenBarka insisted "Logic is logical." In Calculus, Mrs. Cheryl Sconyers helped students to tackle their tangents and conquer their cosines.

Mr. Bob Havens, the head of the Middle School math program, prepared students for the rigors of Upper School math by teaching them basic Algebra and Geometry.

In the Lower School, Mr. Larry Joe Brown continued to drill the fifth grade with those dreaded multiplication tables. Other Lower School teachers taught students their basic math concepts.

The Gym Comes Alive With The Sound Of Music

Both Middle and Lower School held their music classes in the gym.

Mrs. William S. Kilborne and Lower School students experimented with tunable rhythm instruments. These instruments extended the rhythm band. They did a lot of music listening, and learned to read orchestral scores. They folk danced, sang, and gave their Christmas and Mayday programs.

In addition to teaching her students to read music, Mrs. John L. Long, new Middle School music teacher, stressed the importance of music in American culture.

Lower right: Lower Schoolers sightread with the help of Mrs. Kilborne's faithful pointer.

Students Study Mass, Moles, And Man

Upper left: "Did you say this is a boa constrictor?" Laurie McKay displays her pet snake

Lower left: "Why isn't ours turning black?" Ric Hyden and Valerie Lewis wonder about their copper experiment

Lower right: John Washuta prepares baby jars for culturing fruit flies in Mr. Welch's Bio 2 class.

In Science, the Lower Schoolers studied geology and astronomy, as well as human anatomy. Not one student got lost on the field trips, but many got lost studying human anatomy.

Middle Schoolers learned about the sex lives of plants and animals. Seventh Graders again made their leaf collections. Passersby wondered about all the cheering when Mrs. Sharon Foster discontinued the customary fossil collection.

In Upper School, Bio 2 students had a real challenge with their cats and flies. No one ever got used to the smell of distilled wood in IPS, or the foetal pigs in Bio 1.

THE GENTLEMAN

Flight '77 Takes Off In July

The Flight '77 staff set some firsts: the editor Jill Miller attended a yearbook workshop in South Carolina, then she came back to design and send off the cover, endsheets, and title page of Flight '77 all in August before school started; meanwhile ads director Erin Sweeney got busy with a small dedicated group and sold many ads all in August before school started. At the same time Rob Hundley, Linc Conn, and Peter Courtney were getting ready for the coming year by attending a photography workshop at U.T.A. Due to economics, the yearbook had to be shortened, but staff members reassured themselves with the motto: "Quality instead of quantity!"

Flight '77 had many new inexperienced staffers. If it had not been for the organizational talents of Jill, yearbook would have had to depend upon the blind leading the blind.

The first deadline for everyone was set for October 5 and they rushed to meet it. Mornings, noons, and nights were filled with yearbook, yearbook, and more yearbook. The Saturday sessions, staff agreements and disagreements and the deadlines made working on the yearbook a rewarding experience for everyone.

Falcon Quill* Gets New Advisor, Editor, Format

The Falcon Quill started the year off with a new masthead and a new size. For the first time the school administration scheduled newspaper into a class period and granted credit to staffers. The staff overcame many obstacles, including the nonexistent printer and the continually broken printing press, to get the paper out on schedule.

Mr. Peter Graves, a graduate of Country Day took over as advisor. As a student, Mr. Graves worked on the newspaper for four years and edited it his senior year.

Under the leadership of Mr. Graves and of editor Alan Goodrich, the staff wrote strong feature articles and editorials, included news from the Lower and Middle Schools, and labored to meet monthly publication deadlines. They met daily to plan, write, rewrite, and wonder where George was.

Top. The Falcon Quill seems to have better luck with their pictures than Flight '77 does. Karen McKenzie, Alan Goodrich and George Young look at their new prints.

Oh, Come On — Have A Heart

Valentine Day consisted of making Valentine cards and sacks, exchanging valentines and having parties throughout the school. After a party, the Kindergarten travelled around the school singing their valentine song. Second Graders made special valentines for their moms out of scraps plus a lot of love! The Third Grade got a special treat from their teachers. Mrs. Jean Webb and Mrs. Charlotte Clapsaddle gave each a piece of paper to be turned in instead of a home-work assignment. For their General Store theme in Language Arts class, the Fourth Grade made their antique valentines. Their valentines were special because they had verses written on them.

Middle Schoolers decorated their lockers by hanging valentine sacks on them. Many people dressed up like sweethearts and played love songs on record players for lunch-time entertainment.

Novice Performers Take To The Stage

The Lower School students demonstrated their talents when performing in the Friday morning assemblies with plays ranging from holiday poetry to songs from around the world.

In December, the first grades sang Christmas carols and a week later performed in a play called "Mother, Mother" about students getting up in the morning.

Earlier in the year, the poetry-minded second graders recited poems and pennyrhymes. Later, the children wrote and recited their own poetry followed by a play on telephone and classroom manners.

The third grade presented four plays, the first one entitled "Songs From Around the World." Toward the end of October, they performed in the "Miss Witch of America Contest," a takeoff on the Miss America Pageant. Afterwards, Mr. Joe Brown announced the winners of the annual Pumpkin Contest. Following the Western play on March 4, the students presented their annual talent show.

The fourth graders performed in plays including "The Emperor's New Clothes," "The Little Match Girl," "The Drake," "T'was the Night Before Christmas," and a French program with skits and songs in French.

The fifth graders gave a program about Caddie Woodlawn followed by a skit on the Thurber Stories. They also hosted the annual Spelling Bee in which Lee Cox won first place.

Kindergarten Circus A Roaring Success

A roaring success is what the Kindergarten circus really was, with Ringmaster, David Publicover and Ringmistress, Adrian Clay who announced events and kept everything and everyone in order.

Roaring lions and tigers leapt through hula-hoops of fire. Tightrope walkers amazed their audience by keeping their balance with inside-out umbrellas. Prancing horses with their manes of construction paper amused and entertained. Strong men and women performed amazing feats, while fat men and women rolled around on the floor. Jugglers tried to juggle rubber balls without hitting the audience. Animals were tame leopards, bears, and horses including rare species of elephants.

To end the performance, the traditional clowns spewed tons of confetti over everyone and everything.

Kindergarten Cowpokes Ride On

Kindergarten cowpokes really rode 'em hard. The cowkids made their Grand Entry roping calves and riding bareback broncs. Following the Grand Entry came the steer wrestlers and the gaited horses. Then the cowpokes sang, while Mr. Dan Bloch twanged on his banjo, "Deep In The Heart of Texas." The barrel racers demonstrated amazing feats of skill. They performed perfect trick roping by the ingenious use of hula-hoops and ropes. The Masters of Ceremonies for the performances were Denton Hickey (morning) and Mark Glickfeld (afternoon).

Student Council Sponsors Dress Up Affairs

Student Council sponsored Fiction Day and Rodeo Day to help raise money for its budget. On Fiction Day, students dressed as their favorite fictional characters and on Rodeo Day, students dressed in their favorite western duds.

At Christmas time parents and faculty played each other in basketball. Student Council sponsored the game to collect cans of food for the needy. Parents and faculty alike dressed up in their basketball uniforms. The faculty inched ahead and won the game by a small margin.

The Student Council began their work in the summer when the president, Kelly Thompson, successfully fought for the return of the Senior Lounge.

In the spring, the Student Council had plans to buy a durable, as well as good-looking, plexiglass activities calender to hang in the Upper School hall.

Kickers And Goat Ropers Celebrate

Country Day students put on their hats and boots, saddled up their horses and came on out to celebrate Western Day, Friday, January 28. Costumes ranged from school uniforms to "Saloon Girl" outfits. As every rodeo has its clowns Country Day had Kelly Cash along with her faithful sidekick mascot, Bridget. Boys used the rodeo as an excuse to wear cowboy boots. Mr. Bob Minnerly okayed this, explaining that it's part of our heritage.

The Middle School had a party after lunch. Lori Herd picked up the "Best Dressed Cowgirl" award. The "Best Dressed Saloon Girl" went to Michelle Johnson. Mike Beckman and Kenny Hageman garnered first prize for the "Best Hat." Lauri McKay came out on top as "The Rhinestone Cowgirl." Dan Tatum alias Glen Campbell performed for the Middle School singing "Like a Rhinestone Cowboy" and other western favorites.

A.F.S. Brings The World To F.W.C.D.S.

The American Field Service chapter had a relatively calm year because there was no foreign exchange student at Country Day for the second year in a row. The chapter continued birthday cake sales, their main money-making project, but did not sponsor a box social auction because of little financial need.

The major undertaking of A.F.S. was the week-long short exchange program. Dea Eisner, student president, and Mrs. Claire-Lise Knecht, faculty advisor, sold A.F.S. buttons during that time. Stephanie Steves hosted Sylvia Limouzi from France and Dea Eisner hosted Chihiro Takeuchi from Japan.

On A.F.S. Day, three other students arrived at Country Day — Jorgen Greve from Denmark, Susana Clavijo from Uruguay, and Paolo Pellilo from Italy — along with two former American A.F.S. exchange students who played guitar and sang songs of many lands at the A.F.S. assembly.

"It's Beginning To Look A Lot Like Christmas"

Around December 10, C.D.S. began to look a lot like Christmas. Students put up trees and decor. One saw red and green everywhere. The holiday spirit assumed epidemic proportions among the students and teachers, as the last day before the break approached.

Lower School students presented two plays and had several parties. Even Santa Claus visited the afternoon kindergarten class.

The Middle School sponsored a contest for the best decorated locker and their student council sponsored a party for the students.

In the Upper School, Junior girls decorated the tree, kindergarteners caroled, students' fathers played the faculty in basketball, and Senior girls brought goodies for a party afterwards.

Friday, December 17, was madness with a Christmas music background. At 2:45 all the good ones left to await their rewards on December 25.

Seniors Research Boy-Girl Ratios At Colleges

The college placement program ran very efficiently, thanks to the concerted efforts of Mr. Bob Minnerly, Mrs. Frances Brown, Mr. Ted Sanford, and Mr. Bill Cunningham. Each senior had an advisor who kept him or her on the right track by suggesting colleges, writing cover letters, and giving advice.

Seniors overcame many obstacles in order to get into colleges. Trying to decide which schools to apply to was hard, but filling out the applications was even harder. For example, seniors dealt with questions like these: write your own obituary, what do you feel is one of the main problems of society today and what are you doing to combat it, and if you were to write a book what would you write about and why? And of course, there was always the dreaded and dreadful command, "Tell us more about yourself."

Sale Provides Benefits For Many

The dust had hardly settled from THE SALE 1976, when Mrs. Hugh Lamensdorf and her chairwomen began to plan THE SALE 1977. They came up with many innovations: a pre-Christmas Sale in December involving all class projects, special F.W.C.D.S. tee shirts bought and worn by students on Tee Shirt Day, "Foat Wurth, Ah Luv Yew," bumper stickers, a Chinese auction and dance for the Upper School, and a pre-THE SALE Sale for faculty and students.

The scrungy dungeon became a home away from home for some. They begged, pleaded, cajoled, requested, perspired, telephoned, planned, priced, ate, and laughed for a year. At the end of that time, they produced another SALE, which netted F.W.C.D.S. approximately $55,000 for scholarships and school equipment and materials.

Turn Off The Loudspeakers

In addition to the traditional pep rallies the Falcon cheerleaders planned and carried out a "flaming" ice cream dish for "firing up" at lunchtime, a pep squad of surrogate Cistercian cheerleaders (students' dogs), and a trick on the Senior football players. In the latter, every cheerleader kissed a player. Each "kisssee" tried to guess who had kissed him. Upon opening his eyes, each one discovered his mother standing there!

The cheerleaders also organized the annual "flaming letters" rally before the victorious Trinity Valley game, decorated the boys' rooms, and planned the "kidnap" of the football team. At 6:00 A.M. one morning a C.D.S. girl awakened each football player and whisked her victim off to breakfast at the Old South Pancake House.

The Junior and Senior girls each contrived a rally: the Juniors a singing tribute to the players and the Seniors a drill team.

As a surprise and to show their gratitude, the Senior football boys did a pep rally for the field hockey and volleyball girls before S.P.C.

MS Football Grabs Número Uno In T.I.S.C.

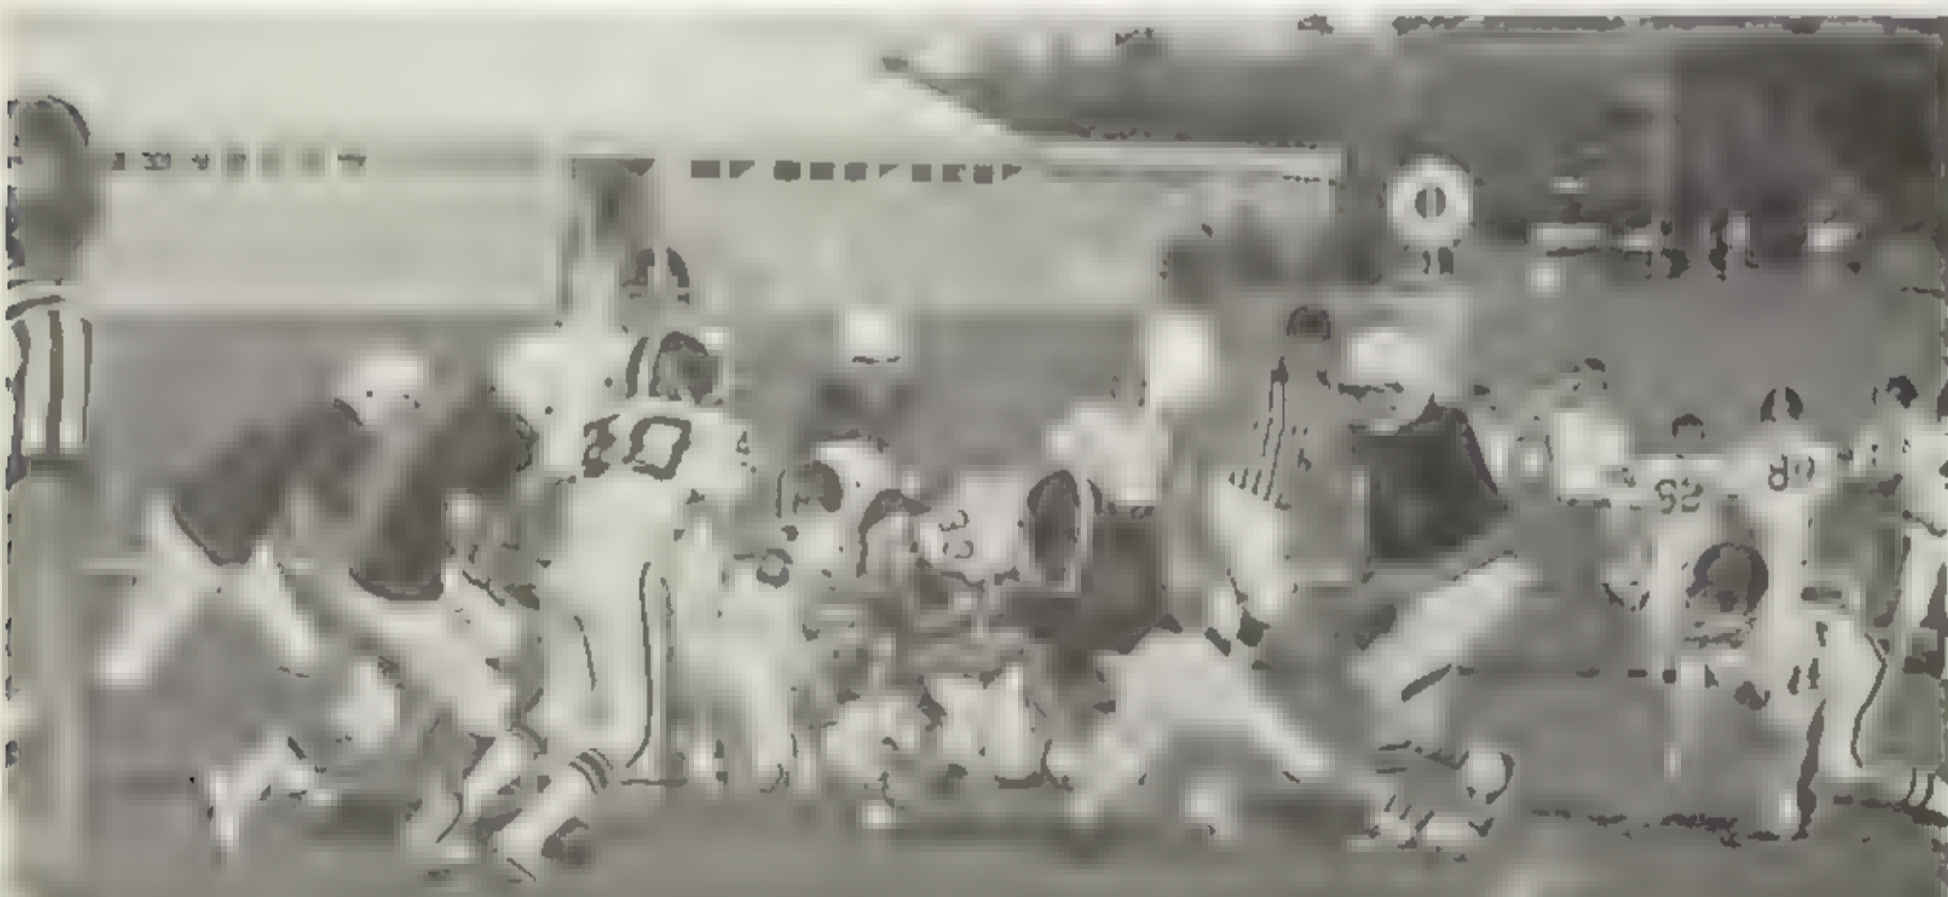

Although the Middle School football team started off slow, as the season progressed, so did the ~~team~~. They ended up undefeated, untied, and Numero Uno in T.I.S.C. In an interview with Flight '77, Colonel "Rocky" Rosacker said, "This is the best Middle School football team yet." They played both conference and non-conference games.

The Falcons avenged last year's loss to Trinity Valley with a 24-16 win over the Trojans. Captains Jay Searcy, Marshall Young, Kenny (Mean Man) Hageman, and Dan Tatum led the troops in battle.

Early Start Gives Falcons The Edge

In the middle of August eighty football players boarded two buses and left for Glen Rose, the site of football camp. The next week was hard and full of soreness and injuries. The most prominent, the pulled quadricep, seemed to be contagious. Freshmen loved football camp the most because of the special attention given to them by upperclassmen. Football camp ended with Skit Night and Judge Roy Bean.

After football camp, the team travelled to Muenster to scrimmage Sacred Heart. After that the players started "two a day's" and after-school practices.

U.S. Football Number One In S.P.C.

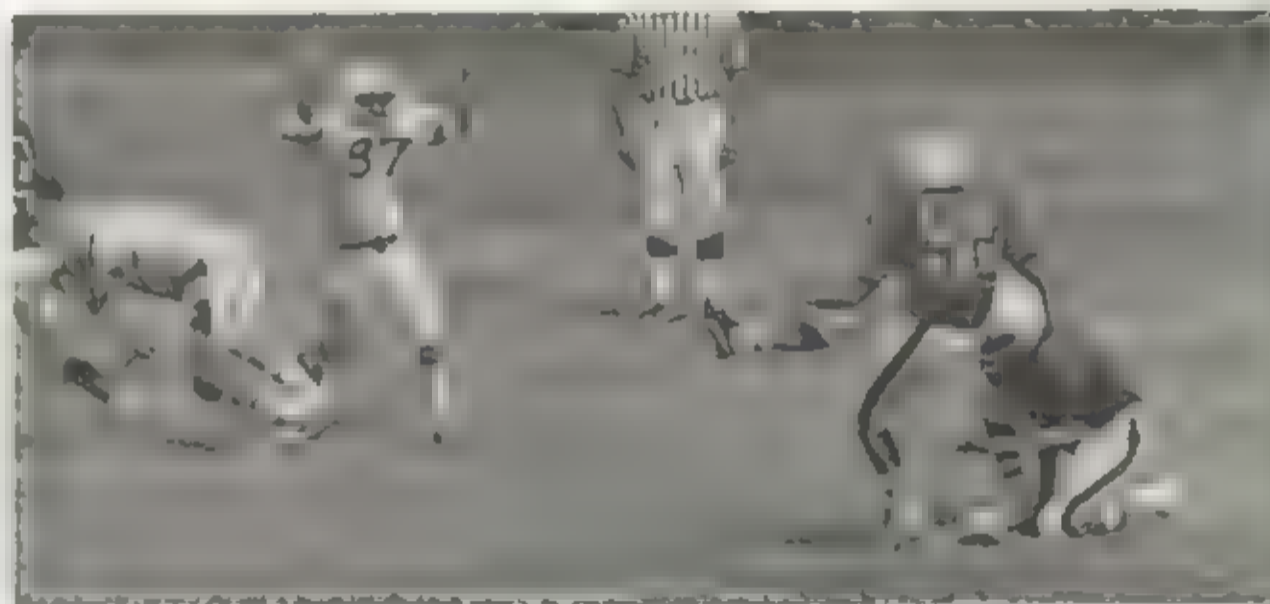

The Falcons played teams that they didn't play last year, such as Sacred Heart, Texas School for the Deaf, and St. Marks. Country Day won all their games except for disappointing losses to Fort Worth Christian and St. Marks. Once again Country Day beat down-the-highway rival Trinity Valley 21-12. Country Day's stomping of Wichita Collegiate 27-0, clinched an undefeated season in S.P.C. play. Captains Byron Keil, John Washuta, Tom Purvis, and Huck Newberry led the Falcons.

Cross Country Races Into A T.I.S.C. Second

The Cross Country team, led by Coach Milton Atebara and Captain Scott Nowlin, established the school's best cross country record to date. They placed second in TISC, the strongest finish ever. In addition, Scott Nowlin made all-conference in TISC and SPC, and Mike Olcott — hot off the gridiron, made all-conference in TISC. Work and determination produced strong runners such as Michael Bueschel and Jim Conlin, whose support helped the team win over most competitors.

Field Hockey Vavooms Through Season

For the Upper School girls field hockey team, under their new coaches Miss Jackie Ziegler and Mr. Mohammed Ben Barka, the toil began in mid-August. The team, with starters from each class, "vavoomed" through the season, and came in second in T.I.S.C. and in Division Two S.P.C. The girls had a ball playing "mud-hockey" in Wichita, as they slogged and slipped through the oozing field to beat Wichita soundly. Players selected the following for All-conference: Kelly Cash, Amy Stevenson, and Susan Olcott in T.I.S.C., and Kelly Cash and Amy Stevenson in S.P.C.

The coaches broadly organized Middle School field hockey with a team for sixth graders and other new students without hockey experience, a B-team, and an A-team. The Middle Schoolers showed a real desire to learn and play the game. For example, they didn't even balk when practices extended into their lunch period. The Middle School Falcons played and won two games against Greenhill, for a victorious season.

Country Day Girls Dig Volleyball

Under new coach Mrs. Cynthia Falls the girls' volleyball team had a very successful year. Winning 14 and loosing 3, they garnered the TISC championship.

Many members of the team won awards. Ann Snyder and Kristin Weillepp achieved TISC honorable mention. Lisa Harrison and Kristin Weillepp got honorable mention in SPC. Kathy Stoddard snared all-conference TISC and SPC while Melissa Corpening earned second team TISC and first team SPC.

The team put a lot of hard work into volleyball season. During practices observers heard remarks such as: "Where do I rotate to?" "Be offensive," "Will you set some to me?" "It's mine, mine, mine!" and "Spike it to me, not at me!"

From time to time they relaxed and had fun. All got together one afternoon at Mrs. Falls' house and painted "Spirit" posters. On another day they devoured a chili dinner.

The girls happily and successfully ended the season by tying with Kinkaid and San Marcos for second place in SPC.

Conditioners Pull It All Together

The Upper School girls conditioning class started the fall term off with high hopes of going bowling, swimming, playing putt-putt, and other fun things. These hopes came to a quick stop when everyone forgot their permission slips and consequently weren't allowed to leave campus. To make up for this disappointment Ms. Nancy Pratt and Ms. Norma Wilkerson led exercises and ran many miles with them. Ms. Pratt and Ms. Wilkerson had their own battle cry: "Girls, move it! If we can run it, you can!"

Dr. Ford Dixon held a conditioning course for boys and girls. Students ran a mile one day and worked on weights the next. Dr. Dixon worked out daily yelling, "Where's Whipple?"

Oh, Hold Me Tight

Referees commented that this year's wrestling team, one of the five in the city, was as talented as any of the other four. The team overcame many obstacles, such as no place to practice, and several injuries. Toward the end of the season, the team got a new wrestling mat on which they practiced take downs, break downs, and pinning combinations. They concentrated on a few basic moves that they would encounter in meets, instead of practicing fancy technique.

Country Day had no chance to win a team championship because it did not have a full team of twelve people — one for each weight class. Wrestlers in all weights performed well with Brad Hockey, returning letterman, having the best record.

Varsity Basketball Regains First Place In T.I.S.C.

Inexperience and a tougher schedule explain the Falcons' 19-9 record. With only four returning from last year's team, the cagers had to take on six new faces. The Falcons played many 3A and 2A teams, gaining a lot of experience along the way.

The team started off the season by placing second in the Fort Worth Christian Tournament and third in the Wichita Collegiate Tournament.

The Falcons suffered their first loss in two years in T.I.S.C. play to Dallas Christian 77-82, but roared back with three straight 90-plus games by beating Trinity Valley 97-71, Fort Worth Christian 92-51, and Cistercian 94-44. They then breezed through the rest of the T.I.S.C. schedule to win the conference with nine wins and one loss.

Wichita Collegiate upended the cagers in S.P.C., winning 60-58 and snapping the Falcons' eleven game winning streak in S.P.C. Collegiate won while the Falcons placed third in S.P.C., tied with St. Marks and Kincaid.

U.S. Soccer Ties First Place In Second Division

Country Day started the season with an impressive victory over Selwyn then went downhill, finishing up in fourth place in T.I.S.C.

The Falcons managed to do better in S.P.C. with wins over Holland Hall and San Marcos. They ended the season by tying Kinkaid, which made them co-champions in second division S.P.C.

New head coach Don Welch taught the team new skills and introduced the daily three quarter mile run. Coach Welch arranged for two Brazilian World Cup players to give the team some advice and instructions.

Win Ryan (No. 13) proved to be the team's lucky number, winning nine of ten coin tosses. Captains Tom Purvis, Win Ryan, Kelly Thompson, and David Parker led the 1976-77 Varsity team.

M.S. Soccer Chalks Up 4 Wins, 4 Losses

The Middle School soccer team had a good season over all with occasional signs of excellence in some games. Led by Red Squad captains Brodie Hyde, Marshall Young, and Dan "Thunderfoot" Tatum, the team posted a 4-4 season.

Coach Dick Stinson was the A team's coach, while Coach Larry Washburn filled that spot for the B team.

The soccer team played well, consistently beating Trinity Valley and Cistercian, while barely losing to Greenhill and St. Marks. The team attributed the losses to one reason — "choke!"

Thats The Way The Ball Bounces

The Middle School basketball team basically had a good season, although they did not live up to last year's record. Eighth grade captains Jay Searcy and Kenny Hageman led the Falcons. James Garner headed up the rebounding list while Jay Searcy led them in scoring. Kenny Hageman, Matt Anthony, and Andy Bonnett were all around good players.

Coach Bobby Flettrich made the Falcons what they are by hard strenuous practices. The four eighth graders played two on two most of the time, while the sixth and seventh graders practiced layups. Andy Bonnet capped off the season when he finally made a layup.

We're Taking This To Court

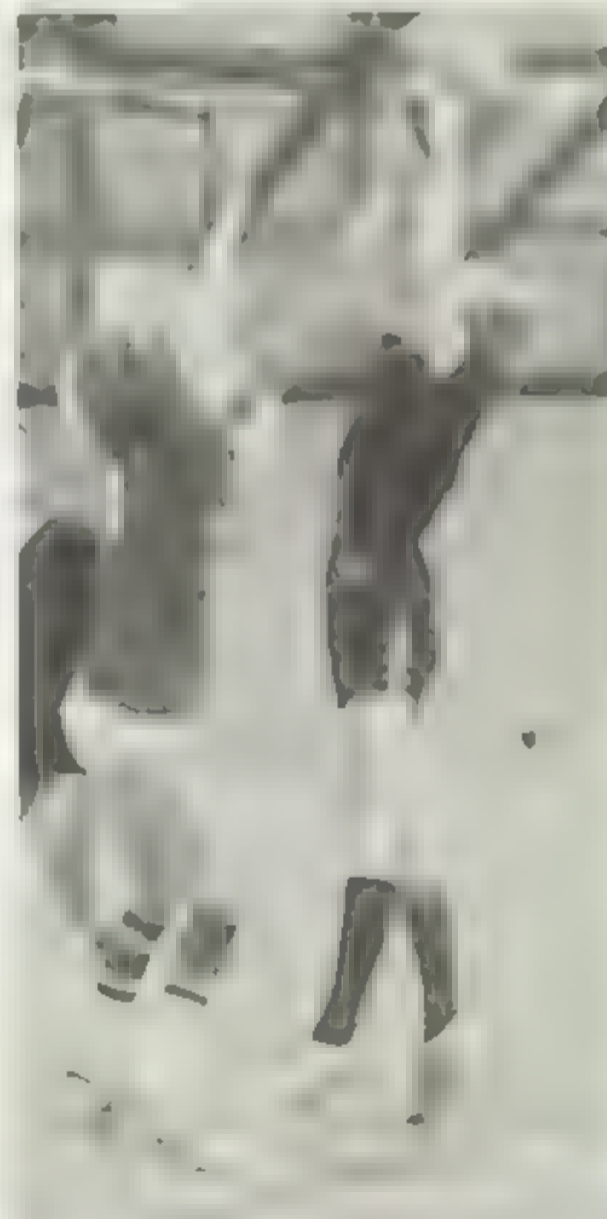

Girls basketball achieved its most successful season yet. They drilled and scrimmaged every day trying to improve their shots, layups, catches, and passes. Coach Bill Baker and Coach Cynthia Falls led them through practices yelling, "You can't win if you don't go to the ball!" and "Do 10 — no, 20 — free throws then you can call it quits."

Familiar cries heard on the court were "Hey, find me a ball with a handle on it!", "Why do Shorty Corpening's shots always go in?", "There goes Stoddard for her 15 foot jumpshot . . . WOOSH!", "You play like a worm!", "It's Capper with another rebound!", and "Weilepp, bend your knees!!!"

To boost the team's morale, "Bebe" Olcott promised them at least one spectator per game. Capper's and Olcott's sprained ankles came at just the right time. Snyder seemed to attract most of the spectators.

To wind up the season Melissa Corpening garnered All Conference for the first team. The All Conference award for the second team went to Kathy Stoddard. Dayna Capper and Susan Olcott received a Honorable Mention for their efforts

Varsity Girls Become Adept At Making Passes

The girls' soccer team drilled, exercised, and scrimmaged its way through the season shouting their familiar cry of "Vavoom" every step of the way. Under the leadership of Coach Ben Barka and Coach Rea they conquered bruises, messed-up knees, black eyes, and experienced the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat to place first in the North zone preliminaries.

Practices went something like this: Wareham gave her daily moose calls, Zube continually reiterated "Soccer is O-K-A-Y!", girls talked about Mrs. Rea's astronaut suit, Leslie Herd seemed to have her hands on everything, Cutler hogged the field, and then Abram, Ward, Hodges, Stevenson, and Parchman warmed the benches.

At the end of the season, Leslie Watson, Paula Zubieta, Ginger Satterwhite, Amy Stevenson, and Kelly Cash made S.P.C. All Conference.

Lower Schoolers Have Smorgasbord Of Sports

The Lower School sports program concentrated on improving their hand-eye coordination. Learning to throw, catch, and handle a ball — without dropping it — were the major activities

The boys under Coach Robert Flettrich learned the arts of running, jumping, and throwing to enable them to play Varsity Sports in Upper School without buffing it. For example, they learned how to throw the ball in the net, not in the bleachers. They slowly picked up the skill of how to run around the gym instead of across it. And they mastered the art of kicking the ball in the net, not off the field. One phrase Coach Flettrich continually reiterated was, "Keep your eyes on the ball and use your hands!" Finally, the boys proved that they had mastered these basic skills by successfully competing with each other in a variety of games.

Mrs. Jackie Rea helped the first, second, and third grade girls tumble their way to coordination. Budding gymnasts made use of the new balance beam to increase their poise and self-assurance. The girls looked forward to Mondays and Fridays, when they got to participate in organized games. The fourth and fifth grade girls took a swing at field hockey, dug volleyball, got a kick out of soccer, took a free shot at basketball, and got a running start at track, all in preparation for Middle and Upper School.

Year-Round Savings at Century

There's more to Century Chevrolet than just money-saving good deals on new Chevrolet trucks and passenger cars. We have a top-notch service department that gives you the same advantages — good price, quick service, top quality work.

Maybe you'd rather lease instead of purchasing. We can handle that, too, with custom tailored plans that are just right for you on most makes of domestic or foreign cars.

And if someone in your family is ready for a first car, you can get a lot of driving pleasure — for a lesser investment — with a dependable used car from Century Chevrolet. See us today.

Dear Mr. Adams,

Just wanted to write a little note to say "thanks" for all the extra time and effort that you put into this book to make it a huge success. You spent many Saturdays away from your family in Room 206 giving your okay to all our things during the "last minute rushes." I appreciate your dedication.

Thanks again! all my love,
Jill

Reinstitution of the Senior Lounge. Mike and Mike Stumber parties, parties and more slumber parties. Boogermania — Jeanne's and Patricia's favorite pastime. "I did what last night? I swear I don't remember." Legalization leads to a frustrated Mother's Maria. "Would you like a piece of pizza, Mr. Minnerty?" — You're the worst excuse for a Senior Class I've ever seen! — We love you Doctor! Liz Trash. Amelia. Stephy Peaches. Shell Dupey. Boogers. Patty Hoo. Lefty Lemon. Weswie. Stick. Kamel. The Jewish Princess. Spacey. Ug. Grul. Smiegel. The General. Cy. Bubba Jim. Merv. Jimmy Dip. Ape. Fred. Golden Boy. Shwula. Garbage man puts the lid on Trash. Win's confrontation with a sugar bowl. If you think Sodom and Gomorrah was bad, wait until you see the senior lounge. (Our royal flush beats your full house any day.) Senior boys rob the cradle. "My car is in a faculty space?" Not only was our Scott Home Dance a smash, we smashed the Scott Home. The close class Stephanie showed a northerner some southern hospitality. "Ay! Kevin, it's the green and white stripes." Liz rings scandal bells. "Would you like to buy some of my bulbs?" The Senior class tried to shed some light on the subject. Kelly. Aaron. Tom — a guaranteed ice breaker at parties. Bubba Jim, our resident weatherman turns disco king. "I've heard of ladies night out, but every weekend?" Kathy gets interested in AFS. Kurt's famous rules for hunting. Will's 790 on History Achievement test — very impressive. Alexis's interest in Eastern Hills. "Let's go swimming at Mary Catherine's!" People avoid Alan on deadline days. "Aaron, it's your name on the light bulbs, not ours." Holly's second home — a tennis court. Brad and his flower power car. Gary has it made in the shade with his Adjustolights. Huck's interests in Dallas, Naomi and New York — second time around. Senior girls lust after Tom. Janice, the mad bowler. Erin suffers jet lag — from California! Taco Team. Miss Weilepp reigns over Calculus class. Peter has new car for every occasion. Jay's flashy T-bird. Lynn's gourmet surprise birthday party. Judy's and Leslie's visits to Merry-Go-Round. Paschal guys offer entertainment. "Let's visit every school in the U.S. and then let's decide." Jill keeps many loves on the side. Ellen photographs anything and everything. Shelley's Cotillion date was a real "knock-out!" "Hey, Win, who picked out your peach shirt?" The Class with class.

THE CLASS OF 1981

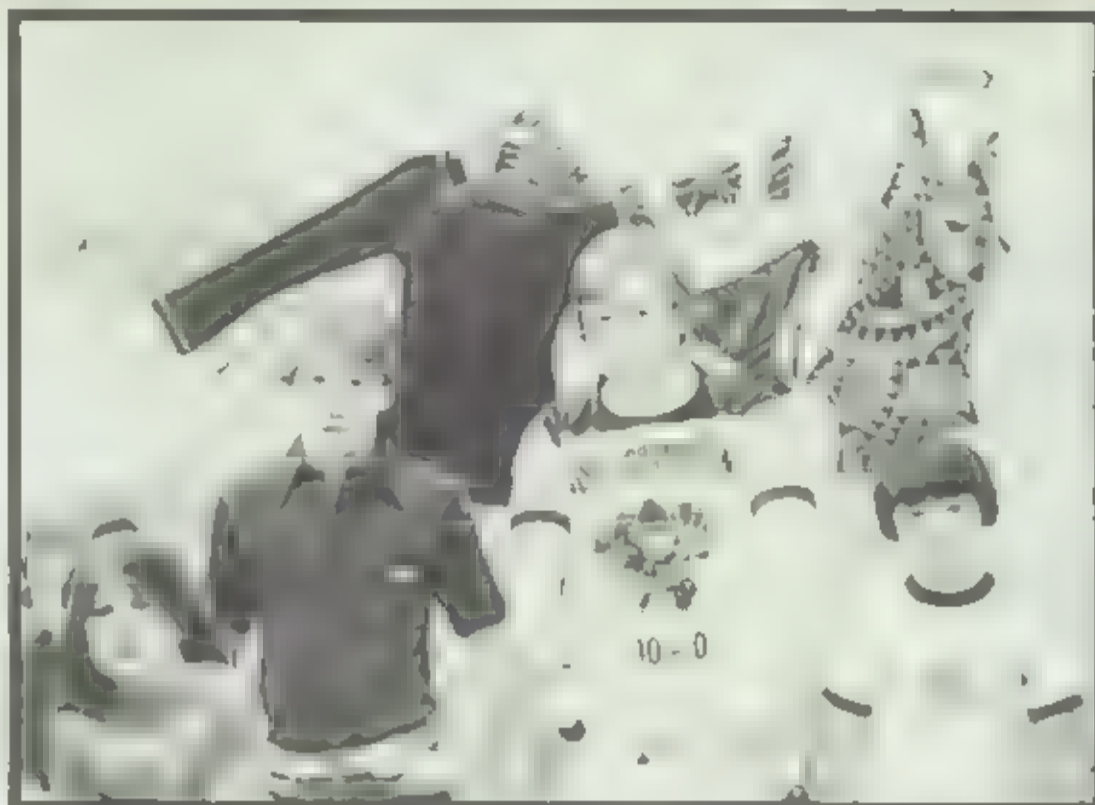

Finally out of Middle School! Sex Ed. Big Bend. No fossil collection. Seniors of 81? Reading Great Expectations. Painting the Kindergarten walls. "Another Student Council meeting, Elizabeth?" Trinity Valley cancelled again? Praying for "snow days." "Mr. Washburn, I don't understand!" Carl's worthless catalogue. Shannon and Todd. Aliage. Music in the lunch room on holidays while Dan sings. "Got any gum?" Notorious football team. Lots of parties. "Got anything to eat?" New principal, Mr. C. Braces, braces, and more braces. Queen Concert and Roger. Very athletic class. "Marshall, when are you going to get the band together?" Eating too much at French and Spanish dinners. Dual track meet. "Bohemian Rhapsody." "Get in uniform!" Cereal and yogurt. New soccer jerseys, at last. "What did you get for Valentines?" "Cooley." Stud. Batman. "Wing, wing, wing!" "Hello!" "When's your party?" World War I coach.

The staff of Flight '77 would like to give a very hearty "thanks" to the Patrons and Advertisers for the support they have given us. It would be financially impossible to print Flight '77 without their help. For this reason we are very grateful - they make this book possible!

We hope that members of the Fort Worth Country Day School Community will deal with the business establishments represented in this section of the book whenever possible.

Thanks to Irving Music, Inc. for letting us use parts of the song "Be True To Your School." Copyright 1963, Irving Music, Inc. (BMI) All Rights Reserved. Used by Permission. Words and Music by Brian Wilson.

Our thanks go to Kamille Altaras for the artwork on pages two and three and to Sherman Young for the Table of Contents. Also, we give much credit to Naomi Payne for the many extra hours she spent typing for everyone on the staff. We could never have made it without her. LASTLY, MY CONGRATULATIONS AND THANKS GO TO ALL OF THE ABOVE. WE DID IT!

LOVE,

Jill
